

Contents

Acknowledgements	iii
Introduction	v
Public Women, Private Nightmares: Surveillance, Sensationalism, and the Dystopian Politics of Exposure in Victorian News Media MANISHA BHATTACHARYA	1
The Dystopian Quest for Perfection: Evolutionary Anxieties in Two Early Pulp Science Fiction Stories by Women SULAGNA CHATTOPADHYAY	22
Posthumanism and Subaltern Dystopia in Select Bengali Dalit Women's Writings SURABHI JHA	48
Are Humans Enough?: Decoding Posthuman Subjectivity in Ray Bradbury's The Veldt , There Will Come Soft Rains and Marionettes, Inc. DIPTARKAN BHATTACHARYA	64
Monsters in a Shrouded World: A Critical Study of Apocalyptic Themes in Stephen King's The Mist MELANIE ALEXANDER	72
A Study of Afrofuturistic Storytelling in Selected Post-Apocalyptic Graphic Narratives AISHWARYA BHUTORIA	99

Cross-Cultural Representation of Dystopia PREM ALEAN BAG	115
Death, Dystopia and Darkness: Reading Abjection in Ganesh Pyne's paintings SRIJANI DUTTA	128
"You can only be the Revolution": The Utopian Embodiment of the Ones Who Walk Away from Omelas SANGYA PAL	133
FILM REVIEW
The Burden of Being Other: Caste and Communalism in Neeraj Ghaywan's Homebound BHAIRAB BARMAN	150
Contributors	155